THE SENIOR CLASS
Martha's Vineyard Regional High School

Martha's Vineyard, Massachusetts

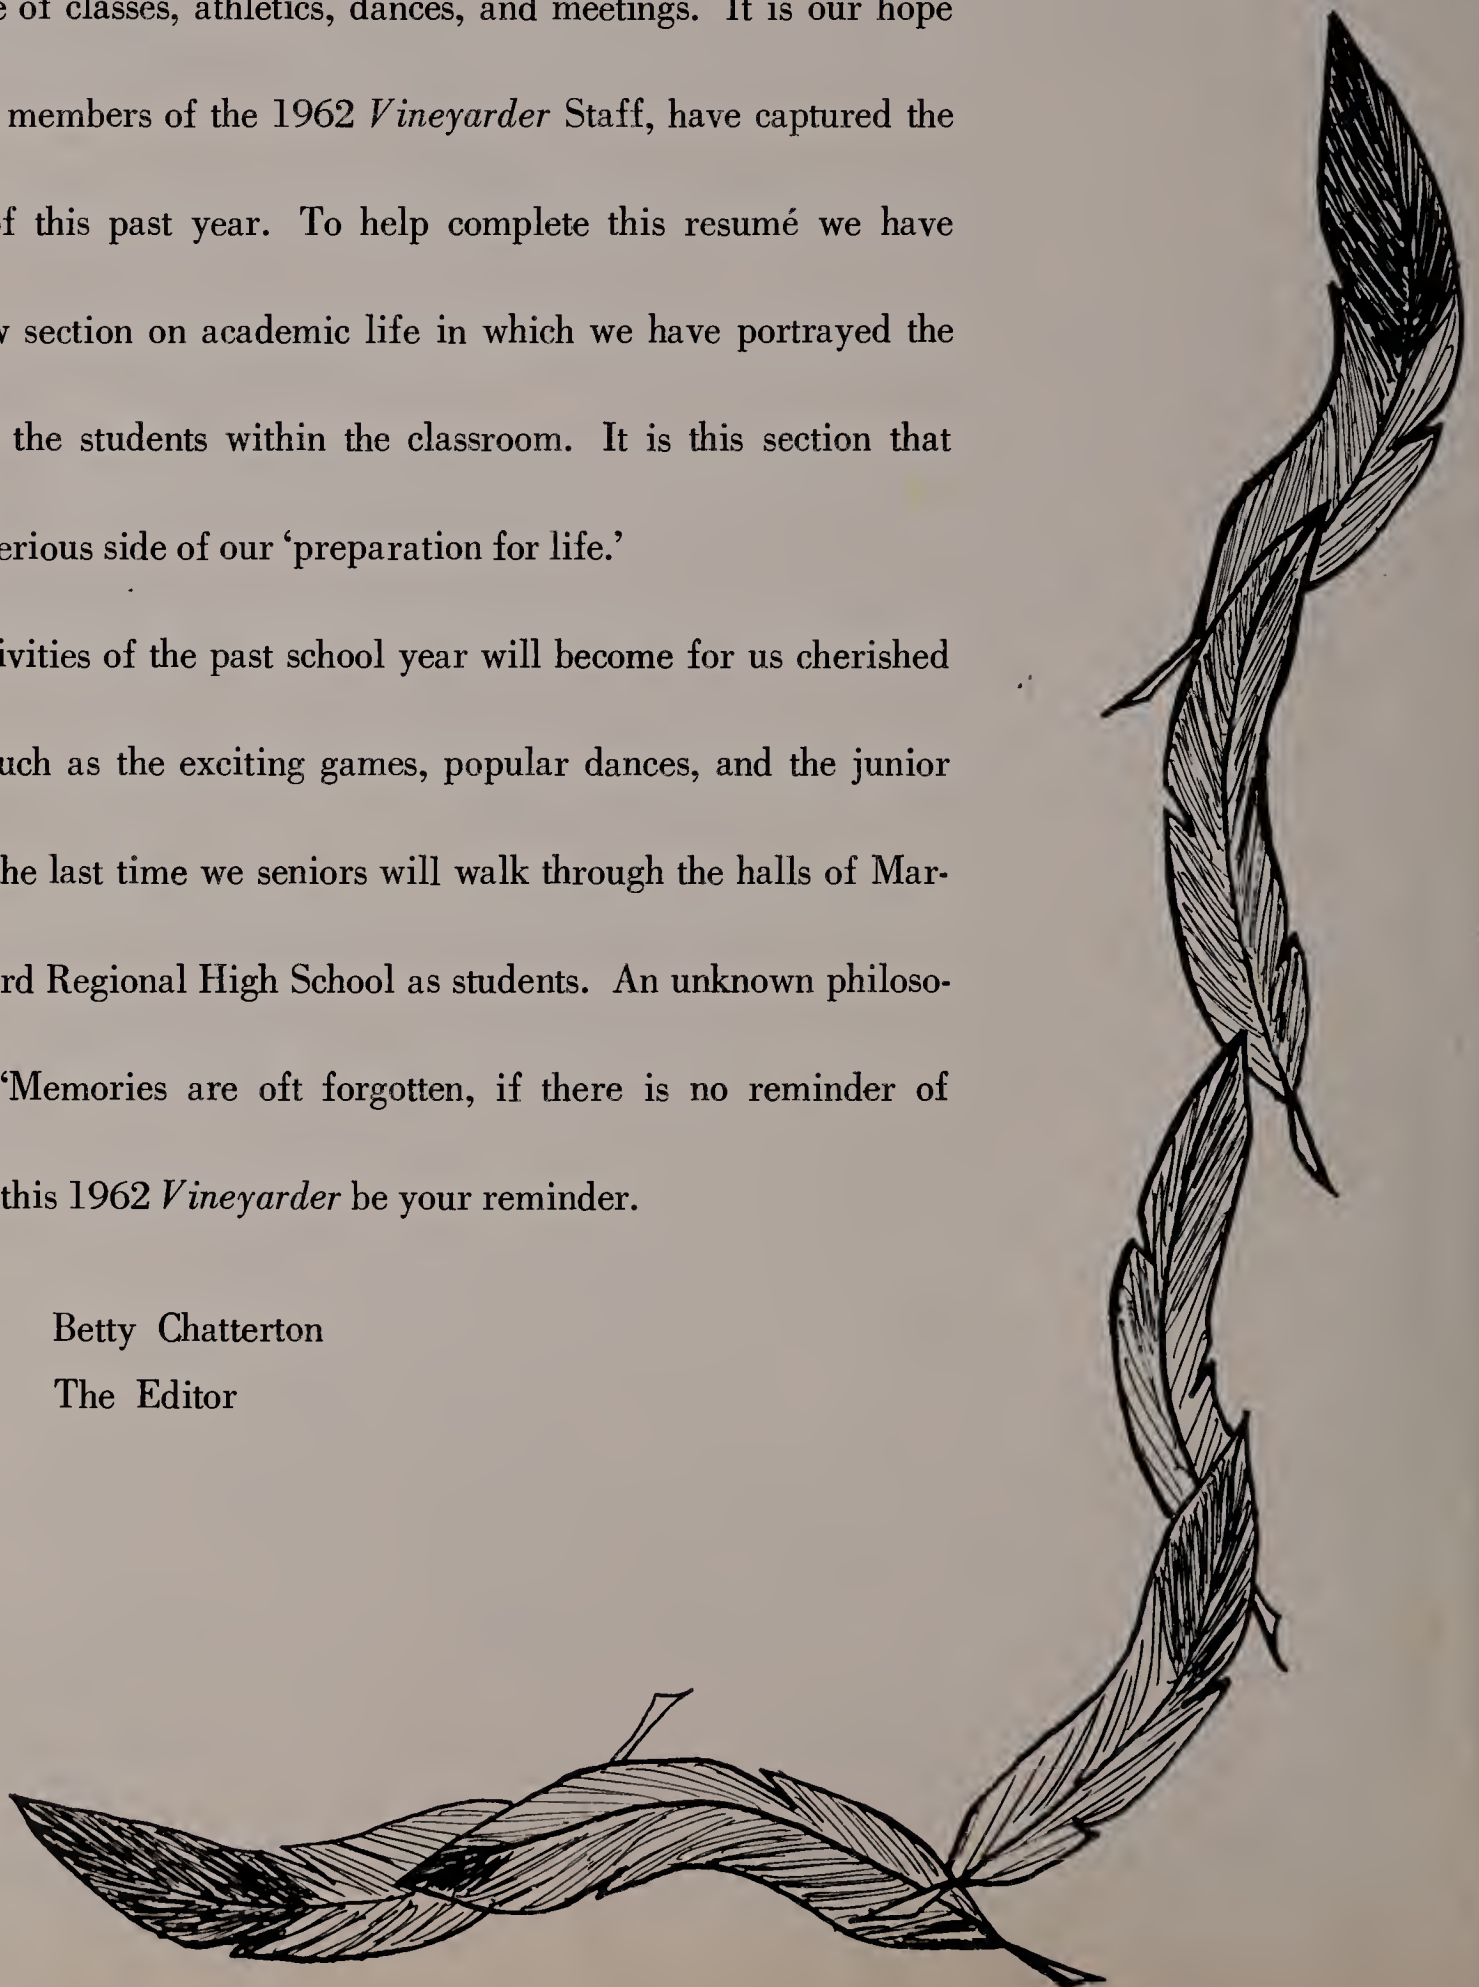

FOREWORD

Another busy year has passed at Martha's Vineyard Regional High School—one of classes, athletics, dances, and meetings. It is our hope that we, the members of the 1962 Vineyarder Staff, have captured the highlights of this past year. To help complete this resumé we have added a new section on academic life in which we have portrayed the activities of the students within the classroom. It is this section that depicts the serious side of our 'preparation for life.'

Many activities of the past school year will become for us cherished memories, such as the exciting games, popular dances, and the junior prom. For the last time we seniors will walk through the halls of Martha's Vineyard Regional High School as students. An unknown philosopher said, "Memories are oft forgotten, if there is no reminder of them." Let this 1962 Vineyarder be your reminder.

MR. JOHN W. MAYHEW

The class of 1962 is pleased to dedicate this Vineyarder to its class advisors, Mrs. Philip J. Drew and Mr. John W. Mayhew, as a token of its deep appreciation for their valuable assistance rendered during our three years at Martha's Vineyard Regional High School.

Mrs. Drew and Mr. Mayhew, more than any other members of the faculty, have had direct and effective influence on the members of our class. They have cleared many obstacles from the pathway to our future success. They have given us countless hours of patient cooperation inspired by their devoted interest in the class.

To you, Mrs. Drew and Mr. Mayhew, we sincerely dedicate this resumé of our final year of high school. May it always serve as the voice of the class in saying, "thank you."

ADMINISTRATION

SUPERINTENDENT'S MESSAGE

CHARLES E. DOWNS

As graduation becomes a reality, you, no doubt, have paused and reflected on what has passed and have looked forward with a somewhat timid expectation of what is to come in the many years ahead.

During the last few months, perhaps, there have been continual additions to the list of things that you have done "for the last time at high school." It is a good feeling? Are you glad to be leaving Martha's Vineyard Regional for good, or are you at least a little sad? It may seem strange but you are not quite sure how you feel because you are leaving just a bit of yourself at the Regional and you are taking just a bit of the Regional with you.

For that part of you which you have left your school thanks you for your contribution to its heritage. With that part of the school which you have taken with you may you find yourself inspired to cope with your future ambitions.

I join with your parents, teachers, and friends in wishing you success in your future endeavors.

PRINCIPAL'S MESSAGE

Since your early years of high school, graduation has seemed an entity of the future; but already it has become a part of the present, and tomorrow it will be a part of your history.

Mark Twain once said that training is everything; that the peach was once a bitter almond, and that a cauliflower is nothing but a cabbage with an education. I suppose that is much like saying that education is to life what cultivation is to farming.

For some of you, graduation marks the end of your formal training, while for others it is the gate to the next academic challenge. Whichever be the case, I hope that the Regional High School has contributed in at least a small measure to the successes that life holds in store for you.

Continue your pursuit of learning. To stand still now is to move backward. Whatever be your goal, prepare yourself for its demands by continuously increasing your knowledge of the work you will do and of the world you live in. This is a luxury that all can afford.

What you have accomplished in the classrooms of the past twelve years will be reflected in your successes of tomorrow. Remember that there is no unique formula for success; rather, success is something that comes to those who know how to kill time by working it to death; and not by waiting for a ship to come in that was never sent out.

Congratulations on this happy occasion and may all your future endeavors be rising and rewarding.

CHARLES A. DAVIS

SCHOOL COMMITTEE

Left to Right are Mr. Alfred Metell; Mrs. Donald R. Mills; Mrs. Gordon Perry; Mr. William W. Figueiredo; Mr. William M. Honey; Dr. Russell S. Hoxsie, Chairman; Mrs. John W. Mayhew; Dr. David Rappaport; Mrs. Louis S. Larsen; Mr. Alfred Hall.

To many of you in the Class of 1962, the School Committee is probably a remote body with whom you have little contact. However, we, who are fortunate enough to serve on the current committee, feel close to you. We watch your progress as a class; we strive to enrich your school experience; we feel keenly your successes and your failures. Your contribution to your society will be in a way the measure of our success or failure. Particularly you of the "cool generation" have many epithets to live down; but, indeed, each generation of high school graduates has had its label and characterization. Yours is not much worse than some and better than others. You of the "cool generation" have also many challenges to face, opportunities to serve and adventures to pursue. We wish you well in all these things.

"Ambition, like a torrent, never looks back."

The mainstay of any class is its officers. These people accept, along with the honor of high office, great responsibilities. Throughout the year the senior officers have exercised qualities of leadership, character, and thoughtfulness. They have freely sacrificed much time and effort to help steer the class safely through the details of ordering personal cards and announcements, planning the senior ball and class banquet, and carrying out class projects and graduation plans. These people have been personifications of both class and school spirit. We appreciate all they have done to make our last year at M. V. R. H. S. a successful one.

HISTORY

The last diploma has been presented, and it seems, to the Class of 1962, to be the end of this leg of the journey through life. But even as the words of the class song are sung, memories of the past four years linger in every heart. As we prepare to go our separate ways, our most vivid recollections are those of Senior week. However, as we say farewell to our high school days, we think of September, 1958, and it seems like yesterday that we embarked on our journey through high school.

Our recollections are not all the same however, for that year found us, the Class of 1962, attending separate high schools. In Edgartown, a group of anxious students proudly took its place in the high school study hall. There they sat for all to see. Freshmen at last. As the year progressed, the members became active in sports, chorus and instrumental music. With Miss York as their advisor, the class sponsored the Christmas party for the high school.

Their counterparts in Oak Bluffs were a spirited group. Determined not to be outdone by the rest of the high school, they entered enthusiastically into all extracurricular activities. This class, forming the arch under which the graduates marched, was honored in being able to participate in the last Graduation program to take place at Oak Bluffs High School.

The third portion of the Class of 1962 entered Tisbury High School as Freshmen. They too were an ambitious group and showed promise of becoming a valuable part of the forthcoming Regional High School. For activities they sponsored a St. Patrick's Day Dance and honored their teachers with May Baskets on May Day.

Tisbury was certainly fortunate to have these students participate in its club, sports and music programs.

As the members of these classes left their respective schools in June of 1959, they did so with mixed emotions: all were sad to see the traditions of the local island high schools come to an end but looked forward, eagerly, to the opening of the Martha's Vineyard Regional High School.

TISBURY HIGH SCHOOL

OF THE CLASS

RONNIE AND THE JUNIORS

In the fall we returned and took our place in the ranks as Juniors. The year began as officers were elected and Mrs. Drew and Mr. Mayhew were assigned as class advisors. Our class rings arrived and we proudly exhibited them. Again our classmates played important parts in the activities of the high school. The second day of school found many of our athletic friends vieing for positions on the newly organized football squad. The password of the Junior boys that fall was "Hit 'em hard and hit 'em low." Our hearts swelled with pride when our football team, uniformed in flashing purple and white, took its place on the field for the first time. Bolstered by five Juniors, the team downed Provincetown that exciting afternoon in October.

We sponsored many dances and bottle drives to finance our activities. The highlight of the year was "Pastel Paradise," our Junior Prom. Our months of toil and tears were well rewarded when all who attended proclaimed it the most beautiful prom ever. Then, as we watched the Seniors prepare for graduation, we realized that soon we would take the giant step to fill their shoes.

September, 1961, finally arrived bringing with it our Senior year. We had worked toward this goal for eleven years, and our short reign certainly has lived up to all expectations. Excitement prevailed early in the year as we began work on our yearbook, "The Vineyarder." In October we sponsored the Annual Halloween Dance which proved to be more of a success than even we had hoped. The year passed quickly as we busied ourselves with ordering our Graduation Announcements and generally preparing for that last day when we would set out into the world on our own.

Now as we sing farewell to our teachers and friends we cannot help but recall the work and the fun of the past three years. That day in September, 1959, is one which we will long remember.

No one could escape being struck by the newness of all the surroundings. The shiny new buses, the beautiful building, the new teachers, and last, but certainly not least, the new friends. As the year got underway, our class began to make a name for itself. Class officers were elected and advisors were assigned. Under the guidance of Miss Gilman and Mr. Rusbosin we sponsored a successful dance in honor of the Varsity Basketball Team and also sold pens on which the 1959-60 basketball schedule was imprinted. Our classmates as individuals were active. The Chorus and Choraliers as well as the orchestra and band boasted many Sophomores in their midst. We were justly proud of our athletic classmates also. Many assumed key positions on both the Boys' and Girls' Basketball and on the Track and Cross-Country Teams.

The success of the clubs newly organized at "The Regional" was due, in part, to the members of our class, who took their places as officers and active members of the various organizations. We proved ourselves as a class when our versatile members, who excelled in athletics, in music and in the school organizations, also took top honors academically. As Sophomores, we were always well represented on the school honor roll. Our busy year soon came to an end, and, saying au revoir to "The Regional," we departed for our summer adventures.

THE HALLOWEEN DANCE

OF 1962

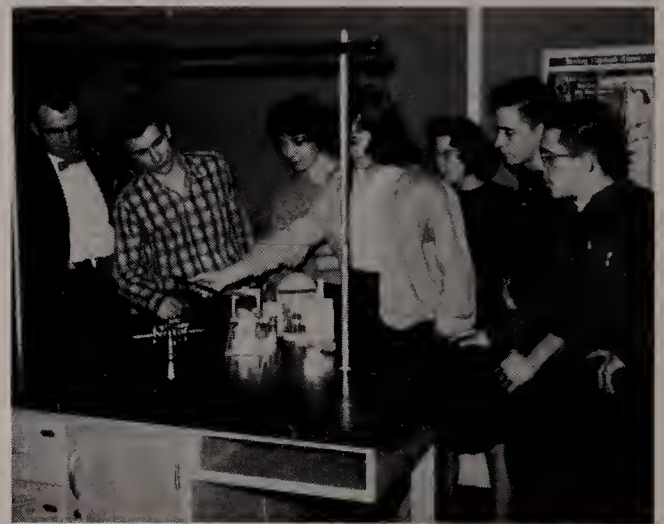

OUR SENIOR BOYS

March was a hectic month for all. Name cards arrived along with Memory Books and much spare time was occupied signing books and exchanging cards. The middle of the month found the yearbook staffs rushing to meet their last deadline, and meet it they did, producing the best "Vineyarder" ever. May brought the Junior Prom and it certainly turned out to be all it had promised. Senior Week followed. This was a time of happiness and tears. At the Banquet we were sad when we realized that our twelve years of schooling were almost at an end, but happy to think that we had tried our best and had contributed something to those with whom we had associated.

Class Day proved to be a time of mixed emotions.

Members of the class proudly accepted numerous awards. As our class will and prophecy were read, we were once again struck with the realization that only too soon we would be on our own. The Senior Ball was our last class function before graduation. It was a beautiful dance and will surely stand out in the minds of all who attended for many years to come.

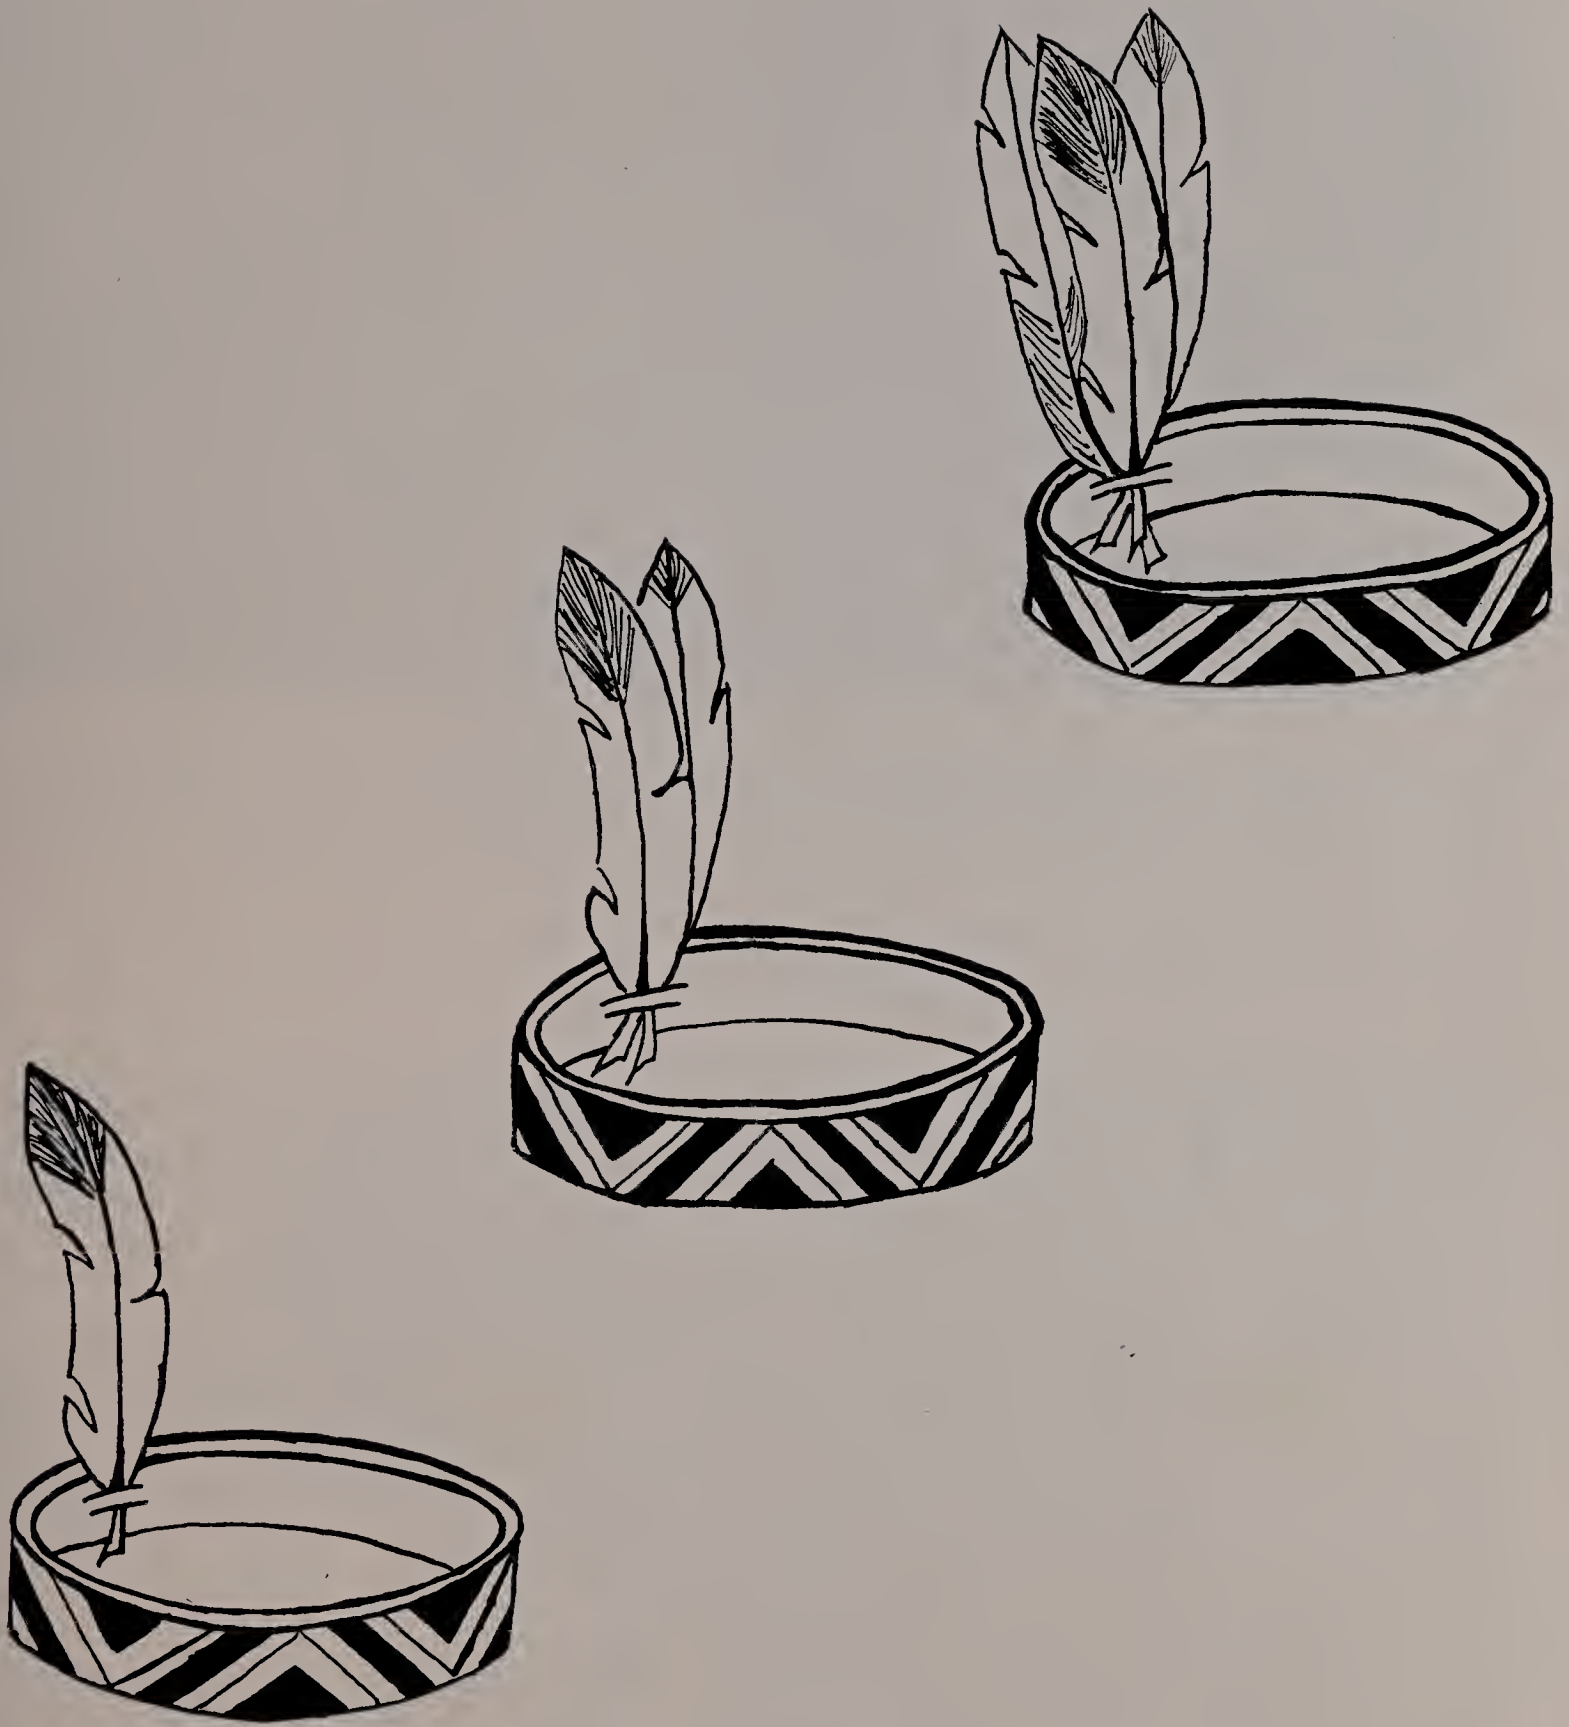

June 10, 1962, our Graduation Day, has finally come. And now, as the last chords of our class song are struck, we realize that it is the end of this leg of our journey through life. We are with hopes in our hearts and diplomas in our hands truly off to see the world and to search for our rainbow's end.

ADDRESS TO THE JUNIORS

The Martha's Vineyard Regional High School is the fulfillment of the dreams of parents, teachers, and students. This new school has brought together the young people of the Island to gain a better education. It has provided us with a basic preparation for future study and life.

Three years ago we, the class of 1962, entered this school for the first time. We have worked and have received the maximum of education, encouragement, and guidance from our school. We have become a united group, learning, producing, and enjoying our life here. During these years we have also acquired many friends, much inspiration, and have developed school spirit. Being seniors, we can look back at our accomplishments as a united class. We have set many precedents in our attempt to raise the standards of the school. It is our hope that you will continue the more valuable of these and, in your devotion to a growing school, establish some of your own. As we are proud to be graduates of this institution, so should you, also, be proud to belong to a school with such promise of growth and scholastic status as ours.

As the year comes to a close, we bid you farewell and leave the responsibilities of keeping high the standards of our school. Without the light of knowledge we would lose our way on the path to success and remain in darkness. Use the most of your opportunities here now.

ACADEMIC LIFE

IN THESE CLASSES WE HAVE SPENT

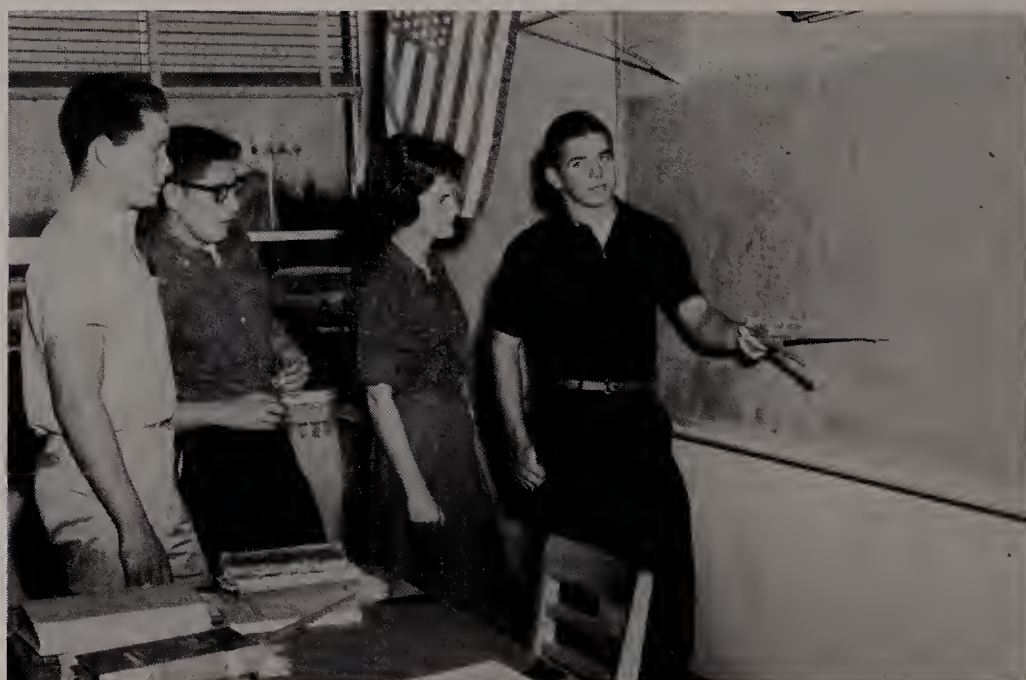

CURRENT EVENTS

A major project of the history classes is current events. Each student keeps a notebook of newspaper and magazine articles and news broadcasts on the geographic area of his choice. A 9' by 12' world map, globes, and several wall maps aid the pupils in finding the location of the various countries studied. This project not only keeps the student informed on world affairs but also aids him in public speaking.

MATHEMATICS

A very extensive mathematics program is offered at the Regional to help prepare the students for further education and jobs. Algebra I and II, plane geometry, trigonometry, shop, business, and review math are provided.

"Mathematics is the keystone of any highly developed society. Of what other subject can we say it is a science, an art, a tool and a language—an international language at that?"

LIBRARY

The students at the Regional High School are very fortunate to be able to enjoy the atmosphere of a pleasant new library which is presided over by a qualified librarian. Although only three years old, it already has about 3,000 volumes, 4 complete encyclopedias, and subscriptions to 25 magazines and newspapers. Students are welcome to use the library for reference work and outside reading during study halls and after school.

TYPEWRITING

Employers pay good salaries for services that require technical proficiency. The commercial course gives the students the training for this knowledge and skill. The aims of the typewriting course are the development of the touch system and the mastery of the keyboard. The first year typewriting class is given problems in tabulation, personal and business letters and questions regarding skills in grammar and punctuation at acceptable speeds. The advanced course deals with increased speed and accuracy in the typing of letter and office forms, legal documents, reports, and practice in general office work.

OFFICE PRACTICE

Office practice is a course dealing with secretarial and office activities. Filing, business law and a study of office machines are covered through the year. Filing includes both indexing and the use of the various business techniques. It involves not only a study of principles but also provides actual practice. The business law course is aimed at helping the student understand rights and obligations and the legal problems of the businessman. The course on machines includes the use of listing and calculating machines, dictating and transcribing machines, a comptometer, mimeograph and spirit duplicator. The room is also equipped with a secretarial desk, file cabinets and a telephone unit. Office practice provides a firm background for the student who desires to enter business as a profession.

SHORTHAND

Shorthand is concerned with the major word-building principles in Gregg Shorthand. Daily drilling, testing and transcribing help the student develop the minimum skill, with attention to correct spelling and punctuation. The second year course combines the skills of shorthand and typewriting and the use of English grammar to produce mailable letters. Knowledge, skill, and accuracy play an important role in becoming an efficient stenographer.

WORKING, LEARNING, AND GROWING TOGETHER.

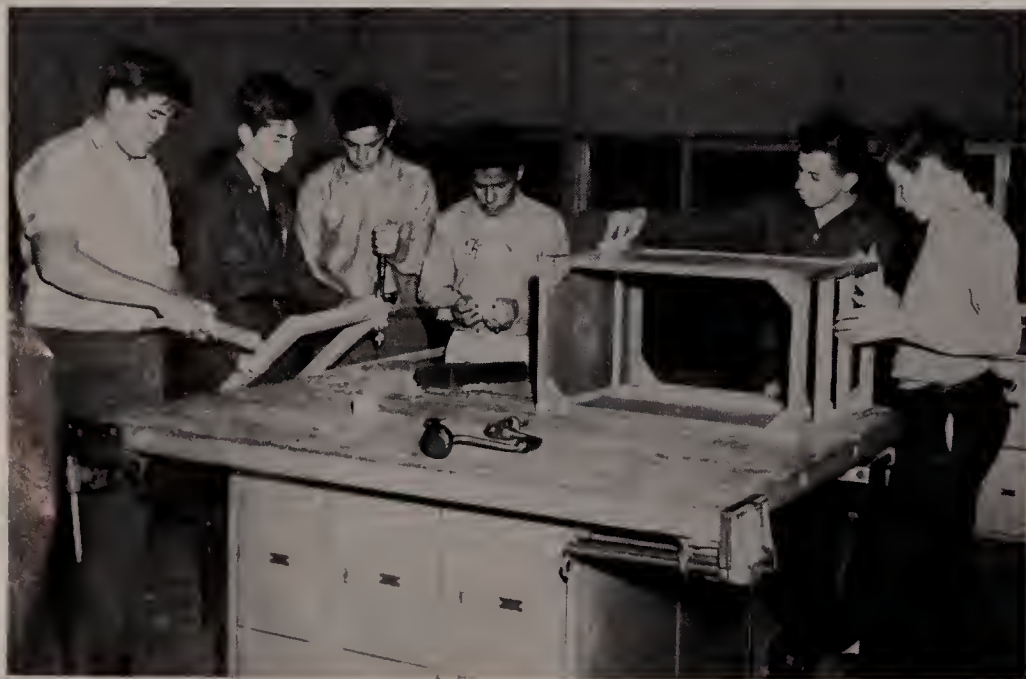

MECHANICAL DRAWING

Mechanical drawing has become a common language among scientists, engineers, designers, and production men. With this knowledge, men can produce, design, or construct any object. The basic objective of the course is learning the proper drafting techniques through correct use of instruments and drawing procedure. Blueprint reading, orthographic projection, and isometric drawing are introduced in the first year. In the advanced classes, the boys make detailed drawings of cams, gears, and screw threads. Projects in machine drafting, basic architectural drawing or electronic drafting complete the course.

BUILDING CONSTRUCTION

Building construction is one of the important parts of the Industrial Arts course. This year, the major project was the construction of a building on the school grounds. This building was constructed from prefabricated parts in the shop, then moved to the site where it was completed. This project, which took four and a half months, provided experience in working with metal, wood, and concrete. This structure, which gave the boys experience in building, will provide room to store sports equipment and tools.

INDUSTRIAL ARTS

The Industrial Arts course is a four-year program offered to boys interested in a mechanical or wood-working vocation. The boys study the different names, uses, and care of both power and manual tools as well as the various methods of hand finishing. Then the student applies this knowledge and skill in the construction of various projects. A study of electronics is provided in an advanced class. The Industrial Arts program is both theoretical and practical.

HOUSE PLANNING

A new project this year is the study of house design by the girls in the Home Economics III class. The most colorful house magazines, equipment catalogs, and fabric samples provide ideas from which the students draw floor plans. Some of the girls go further and make model rooms from drawings of their "dream" house. This course will be valuable for the homemaker of tomorrow.

COOKING

One of the most important domestic duties is cooking. Meal planning, preparation, and serving are covered in the Home Economics program. The beginning classes study nutrition, breakfast, and lunches, while the more advanced classes prepare meals of casseroles, fried foods, and foreign dishes with the use of four modern kitchen units. Films and field trips supplement the course and help to make the "cooks of tomorrow."

SEWING

The Home Economics course offers a well-balanced program in sewing. The first project was the making of the traditional apron with its embroidered school emblem. During the first year the girls are instructed to operate the sewing machine and make simple cotton and woolen clothes. The more advanced classes study the various types of textiles and make more complex clothes such as gowns and suits. Good grooming is included in this course.

BIOLOGY

The Biology course has three sections: Zoology, Botany, and Anatomy and Physiology. Within these three broad areas, the class can concentrate for short periods of time on the smaller divisions of study: Genetics, Ecology, Entomology, Cytology and related fields. During the process of a year the class has approximately 36 laboratory sessions which enable each student to become familiar with the direct life processes and structure of the organisms studied. In addition to biological experience the student becomes familiar with laboratory equipment and methods of correct laboratory procedure. Outline studies in the field of Parasitology, Bacteriology, and Embryology are also discussed. In the second semester promising students complete individual projects following closely the scientific methods.

CHEMISTRY

Chemistry is the study of the elements, their reactions with each other, and their uses. Two of the six chemistry classes held each week are devoted to laboratory sessions in which the students perform simple experiments involving chemical reactions. Through experiments the students can more readily see how these elements affect everyday living. Chemistry is a good background for college and a must for students who wish to enter the medical field.

PHYSICS

Physics is the science of measurements. It is not concerned with the question of "what happens" but is concerned with "how much." Physics is a study of five phases of physical science: mechanics, heat, sound, light, and electricity. Once a week laboratory sessions are held in which the student performs simple experiments either by himself or in conjunction with others. Physics provides a firm background for the student who desires to study natural sciences. Even though he might become involved in modern atomic physics, he still needs the basic parts of "Ike's" Newtonian physics.

AND DIRECTION AS A FOUNDATION . . .

SCULPTURE

In the advanced art class the students work within their individual areas of interest and are guided accordingly. Some students have chosen the field of sculpture. Many various and interesting forms are created by placing plaster over chicken wire. The figures may be either realistic or imaginary in form. One must have a keen eye and a creative hand to work in this particular field.

PASTELS

Artful use of pastel chalk or charcoal creates an intriguing picture. The picture is given a soft, hazy effect by smudging and blending the colors. After the picture is finished, it is sprayed to prevent further smudging and to preserve the drawing.

PAINTING

Painting is the major art taught in a high school art class. This year the art students have worked with water colors and poster paints on landscapes, still life, and figure drawings, self portraits, and imaginative paintings.

GIRLS' PHYSICAL EDUCATION

This year the girls' physical education program tried to comply with President Kennedy's wish for physical fitness among our youth. The contest, in which 135 of our girls participated, consisted of modified pull-ups, sit-ups, and squat thrusts, deep-knee bends, running in place, bending, and jumping. As a result of the tests, interest in physical activity seems to have soared upward.

Other sports covered during the year were archery, softball, soccer, speedball, basketball, volleyball, apparatus, tumbling, badminton, and folk dancing.

BOYS' PHYSICAL EDUCATION

This year the Regional High School participated in the United States Marine Corps Youth Fitness program which consists of five basic tests: push-ups, sit-ups, squat jumps, squat thrusts, and pull-ups. The maximum score on these tests is 500 points. Of the 150 boys participating, Kenneth Metell placed first with an astounding 491 points, followed by Carl Lopes with 436, Raymond Smalley with 407, Manuel Nunes with 402, and Wayne West with 410 points. These five boys will represent our school in a field day in May to compete with other schools in our area. Although this was an important part of our program the following sports were included: football, soccer, speedball, hand hockey, basketball, volleyball, apparatus and tumbling, wrestling, track and field, badminton and softball. It is the hope of this department that we have better prepared these students physically for their academic duties.

PHYSICAL EDUCATION

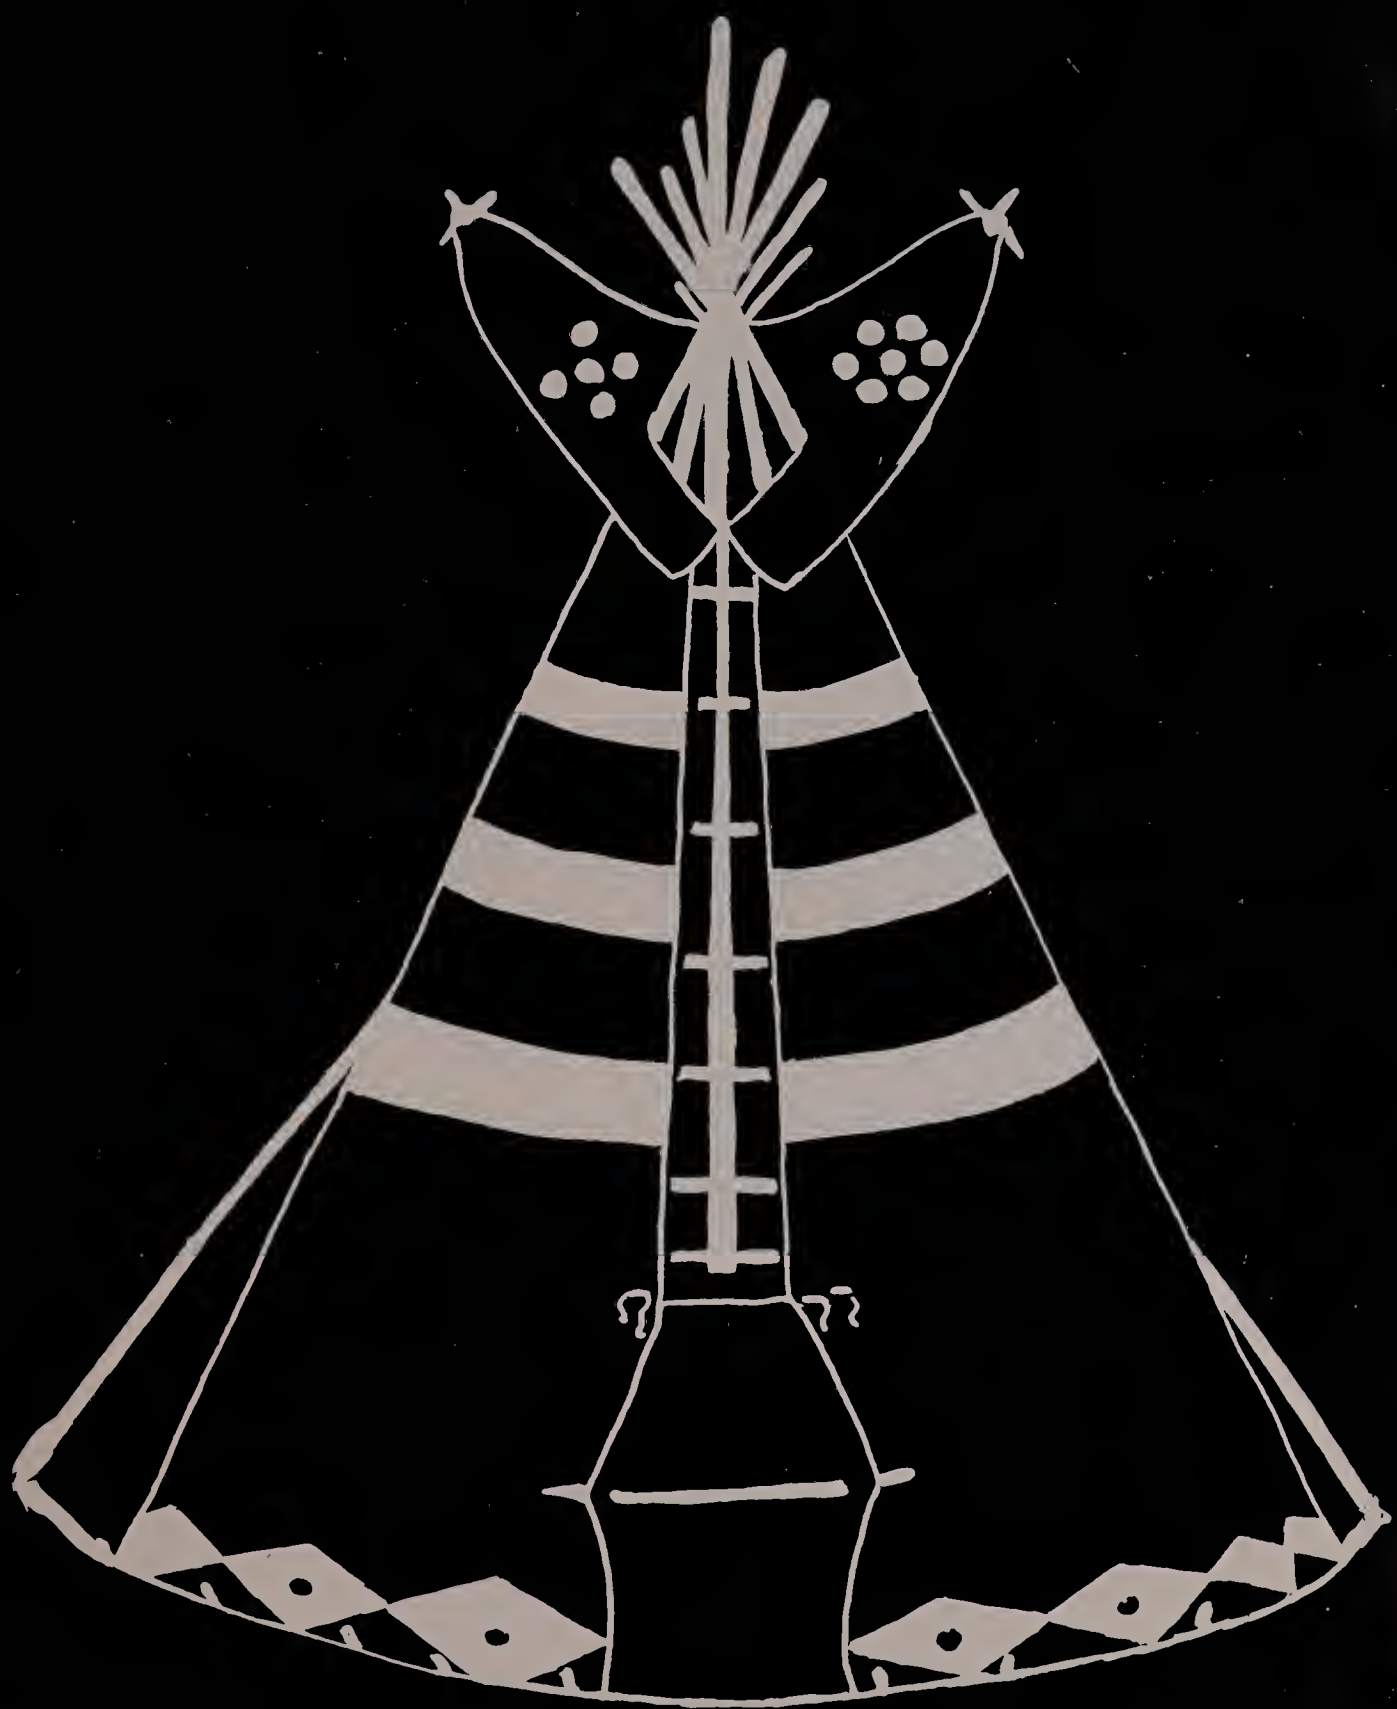

Physical education is an important part of modern education. Physical education develops the student physically, mentally, and emotionally. The objectives of the course are to learn accepted rules of courtesy and sportsmanship, to develop physical skills and to enjoy recreational activities. Physical education gives the student an opportunity to participate in both group and individual activities. All of these are valuable in later life.

CLASS MOTTO

"Knowledge advances by steps, and not by leaps."

—MACAULAY

CLASS SONG

FAREWELL—all our high school days:

It's time to go our separate ways,

With all our memories and meditations

Of fun we've had and work we've done.

FAREWELL—teachers we have known,

And classmates we have called our own,

Our many advisors so warm and sincere

Who've helped us throughout each difficult year.

FAREWELL—we're off to see the world;

There's such a lot of world to see.

We're seeking the same rainbow's end

Waitin' 'round the bend.

To all our treasured friends, fond memories,

Good-by.

For its second year at M.V.R.H.S. football has played an important part in boosting school spirit. Good sportsmanship and team effort were displayed during the entire season. The team, showing a never-say-die attitude, was a fine example of the results of self-determination. The attitudes, desires, and willingness of the team left a warm place for its members in the hearts of their coach, school, and community.

Raymond Smalley

This year the Cross Country team has had a most outstanding season, one of which the entire school and community have been proud. To start the season, the Purple and White took fifth place in a 12-school meet at Norton. In a meet at Old Rochester the team won, 45-17. In a home meet, at which Falmouth defeated the Vineyarders 35-20, Ray Smalley broke the island course record and came in first. In the Southeastern Massachusetts League the team took fifth place.

In the Massachusetts State Meet the team of ten members finished fifth in the 15-school Class E Contest with Ray setting a record time of 12:12 over a 2.5 mile course. Of the 180 boys who participated, Carl Lopes came in 8th, Ray Fauteux 23, Ken Metell 54, Dan Luce 57, Wayne West 58, Richard O'Neil 96, Scott Edgar 133, Richard Combra 136, and Dave Gordon 144.

Ray Smalley has shown a wonderful record this season. By placing first, Ray broke four course records this season. These include meets at Bristol Aggie, Falmouth, the Southeastern Massachusetts meet, and the Class E meet.

It is expected that next year the Cross Country team will have another outstanding season, for all except one of the members, Carl Lopes, a senior, will return for the Purple and White.

Since eight boys are returning to the varsity team next year, Coach Pachico believes the 1962-63 squad will have a very successful season.
